CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Songs and Poetry from the Indian Residential School Legacy

The Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada is accepting submissions of songs and poetry dealing with the Indian residential school legacy. Everyone (Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal) is invited to make a submission.

The goal is a compilation of songs and poetry relating to the Indian residential school legacy, one that will inspire Canadians to tune into stories of survival and messages of hope.

All entries should deal with the theme of residential school and be pre-recorded. Final selection will be made by committee.

Please email your music with lyrics or poetry and your BIO to Léo Dufault at chezduff@shaw.ca.

Deadline for submission is May 1st, 2014.
